

SORT, SET-IN ORDER, SHINE, STANDARDIZE, SUSTAIN

Workplace organization is more than just keeping things neat and tidy, it is a way of supporting Lean thinking. This classroom-style workshop will open your mind to an alternative paradigm. Attendees will leave this interactive course inspired with foundational principles in-hand to begin implementing a 5S in their own processes.

By understanding this methodology for organizing your work, this will set your organization on the first steps towards setting up a continuous improvement and Lean culture.

In this interactive training, you will familiarize yourself with 5 Japanese actions and begin to transform your workplace. Through the visual, hands-on simulation, you will:

- ✓ See how to set up visual management to support continuous improvement
- ✓ Establish standards for organizing your work
- ✓ Gain an understanding of one of the Lean tools for identifying and eliminating waste

No matter what your organization does, Lean will help you do it better. Lean methodology is being applied in a broad range of enterprises including manufacturing, processing, construction, healthcare, engineering, banking, and government services.
